Industry beats 'reclamation' of the gravel pits

Alameda County Bureau

Industry may come to the quarry lands between Pleasanton and Livermore even without the required areawide reclamation plan.

Rhodes and Jamieson Co., one of the valley's "big four" quarry operators, will present a "preliminary land use" plan calling for development of a 15.6-acre "manufacturing operation" on their lands north of Stanley Boulevard.

County planning commissioners will get their first official view of it tomorrow at their 1:30 p.m. meeting in the public works building, 399 Elmhurst St., Hayward.

The valley's sand and gravel committee, a consortium of industrial and civic leaders, has given tentative approval to the project on condition all truck traffic be confined to El Charro Road, the controversial private thoroughfare that keeps some gravel trucks off the city's streets.

Rhodes & Jamieson and the Southern Pacific Railway already had agreed to post a guard at the El Charro Road-Stanley Boulevard intersection following unauthorized civilian use of the crossing and a serious truck-train collision this summer.

Livermore Planning Director George Musso has promised his office will keep a "keen watch" on development of the lands.

If approved, the operation will join two other pre-fab manufacturing plants on quarry lands in the valley.

Council, plan board will 'talk turkey'

PLEASANTON — It's only a few days after Thanksgiving, but the city council will get together with the planning commission tomorrow to talk turkey about some issues they have in common.

The council periodically has a joint study session with the commission to let the junior body know its general philosophy about planning and zoning matters. Reversals of planning commission decisions in the past few months prompted the two panels to agree to get together and see if their communication, if not their thinking, is in line with each other.

Topics on which the commission and council disagreed in the recent past include the ice house installed a few months ago in a Main Street parking lot, Oak Tree Center, the ill-fated Gas 'n' Save station proposal on Hopyard Road, Creek's Bend rezoning, a proposed car wash on Angela Street near Main street and a general plan amendment to reduce densities near Vineyard Avenue.

The council also wants to discuss completion of the city's traffic circulation system, including Pico Avenue, Del Valle Parkway, Valley Avenue, W. Las Positas Boulevard, El Charro Road and other streets.

The Del Valle Parkway is a good example of some of the conflict between the two panels. Some commissioners have advocated giving top priority to its development to alleviate traffic problems on Vineyard Avenue, but council members feel there are many other priorities which outweigh it in the competition for funds in the city's nearly - bare financial cupboard.

The two boards also are scheduled to look at the status of sewers and industrial development, the future of the board of appeals, the location of public buildings and the desirability of a planning commission liaison to the city council.

The city council has a liaison, Frank Brandes, who sits in on all planning commission meetings and fills in council members when they have questions about the intentions or background of any planning commission actions.

The joint meeting is scheduled for 9 p.m. tomorrow, following the city council's discussion at 7:30 p.m. of how to earmark $93,000 for the Department of Public Safety. A discussion scheduled for 8:15 p.m. about LAVWMA matters apparently will be skipped because expected LAVWMA technical data won't be ready in time.

Sammy has a close call — and the Spear family offers special thanks

LIVERMORE — Joe and Nelda Spear were extra thankful this Thanksgiving. Their son Sammy — described in several Times' articles a few months ago as the little boy who almost didn't grow tall because of a fluke in his body chemistry — had just had another brush with death.

The four-year-old tyke had been under the weather with a flu virus two weeks ago when his mother started to give him a bath.

It was Saturday, Nov. 13. The phone rang. Nelda answered it and soon realized there were none of the usual noises coming from the tub.

She rushed back to find Sammy had gone into another coma and slid under the water, almost drowning. Less than two minutes had lapsed.

"I jerked him out and gave him mouth to mouth resuscitation," Nelda told The Times. "It wasn't working and I was hysterical, so I grabbed him and ran next door."

Neighbor Gertrude McFarland, an LVN at Veterans' Hospital, immediately began administering cardio pulmonary resuscitation when Nelda "beat on the door and just handed Sammy to her."

Livermore police officer Victor Simard was just around the corner from the Spear home when the emergency call was broadcast.

"He went with us to the hospital and held Sammy's hand while the doctors worked to save him," said the thankful mother. "It was above and beyond the call of duty. He stayed several hours."

Sammy was convulsing for 1½ hours during the treatment.

Nelda told the doctors about Sammy's hypoglycemic condition and glucose treatments were immediately administered.

"We'll never really know what happened," she said, noting no testing of his condition could be made prior to the emergency treatment.

He spent two days in intensive care, before being sent to a pediatric ward at Kaiser Hospital in Oakland. There two special nurses were assigned to watch him around the clock.

"His veins were so constricted, they couldn't give him an intravenous feeding," said Nelda. "A surgeon was called in to do a cutdown where a little tube is sutured into a vein to feed him."

In spite of the serious illness, the youngster amazed everyone with his sprightly ways. Even while convulsing, he would open his eyes and blurt out, "Boy, I fell in... I gotta hold on... gotta keep breathing."

At one point he said half incoherently, "Look Mommy, I can wash my face... oh, Mommy, get me out of here."

The Spears have gone through four years of this type of crisis. Sammy has had many convulsions and respiratory arrests. He made 66 trips to the hospital in 1974 and 1975 alone.

Last year doctors discovered Sammy's pituitary gland had stopped working and was no longer sending growth hormones to the rest of his body. He is now injected with a special human growth hormone from pituitary glands donated by people once they have died.

The hormones have allowed him to grow an additional four inches.

When he returned home after his recent hospital stay, Sammy helped his mother mix ingredients for their Thanksgiving desert. He had to learn to eat and walk and climb again — but that didn't take the scampering tyke long.

The Spears are still puzzled about the cause of seizure. It was his first in more than 10 months.

At one point Joe turned to his wife and said, "Nelda, I don't know if I can take much more of this."

Nelda agreed with, "I don't either."

But, little Sammy Spear — as confident as ever and unaware how close he came to death — reassured his parent's: "I can!"

Valley Pipeline is city council target Monday

LIVERMORE — City council members will meet in special session at noon Monday to discuss financing of the valley's pipeline engineering phase and the threat of a ban on new sewer hookups.

The city and Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency must convince the state's Regional Quality Control Board that the pipeline will be built, if the city is to avoid the sewer hookup ban.

The regional board will conduct a panel Dec. 9 in Pleasanton to hear Livermore's case.

Defeat of the pipeline bond issue earlier this month meant this city continues to be unable to meet the regional board's timetable for compliance with effluent discharge laws.

Council members must decide how it will participate in financing the LAVWMA project.

The meeting will be held in city hall offices, but may adjourn to a night meeting at the municipal court building if the discussion requires more time than available midday.

City ponders funding for police-fire

PLEASANTON — The city council will try to decide how to spend $93,000 in tax windfall funds on increased fire and/or police manpower tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council Chambers.

The funds became known to the council at budget time last summer. They are the result of a higher sales tax sharing yield than previously expected.

The staff is expected to recommend that two more police officers be hired, one for the day patrol, the other for evening. The money could also shift fire personnel so that the fire captains are put back on shift duty and a fire chief and assistant fire chief be hired.

The firefighters' rank and file are expected to make their own presentation to the council with a variation on the staff's recommendation. The rank and file thinks it's fine to hire a fire chief (right now Bert Cherry is Acting Fire Chief), but feel that no money should be spent on an Assistant Fire Chief.

The rank and file reportedly feels that with both a Director of Public Safety and a Fire Chief running the fire department, an assistant chief would not be required. Instead the money could add the equivalent of 1.5 more firefighters, they feel.

Councilman Frank Brandes, who made fire department staffing an issue when he ran successfully for a city council seat last spring, told The Times that he thinks there are good and bad things about the staff recommendation.

"It's a good thing we will have a chief selected by open examination," said Brandes. "We have a need for a qualified fire chief and the plan would put the captains back in the engine companies. Two of the three companies have only two men on the trucks right now."

"The bad part is that I'd rather see the money hire more fire fighters instead of an assistant chief because of the tremendous manpower shortages in our police and fire departments at this time," he said.

Brandes said the assistant fire chief would cost the city around $30,000 a year with all costs taken into consideration.

The unanticipated $93,000 in sales tax revenues was earmarked for the Department of Public Safety last summer at budget time on a 4-1 vote with Councilman Ken Mercer dissenting.

Mercer and Brandes made a motion at that meeting to put the $93,000 in the general fund in an effort to prevent a tax increase, but were outvoted 3-2. Then Brandes joined the majority to earmark the funds for the Department of Public Safety.

Valley news briefs

Santa's phone number

NORTH POLE — Santa Claus is busy preparing for his trek down Livermore way, but he has installed a special local number for valley youngsters to call in a few weeks.

Santa's helpers at the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District and Livermore Jaycees have installed his phones, to be in operation Monday through Friday, Dec. 13 - 17, and Monday through Wed., Dec. 20 - 22.

Youngsters who want to talk to the man in the red suit can call 455-9860 between 5:30 and 7 p.m. those days.

Japanese official visits

LIVERMORE — Kinzo Sugano, a city councilman from Yotsukaido, Japan — Livermore's second sister city — paid a surprise visit here last week.

Assistant City Manager Don Bradley received a phone call last Wednesday from a San Francisco travel agency notifying him Sugano was traveling with a group, but wanted to make a side trip to Livermore to pay his respects.

The Japanese emissary exchanged gifts with Mayor Helen Tirsell and returned to his group for the rest of his trip.

Property tax flap

Board of supervisors chairman Fred Cooper wants an end to "finger pointing" between the state and county governments over property tax inequities. But he's not about to call a truce in his ongoing war with Gov. Brown.

Cooper's detente, backed with muscle from this month's statewide county supervisors' association convention, brashly assaults the Governor's "lowered expectations" with a barrage of his own words.

The stakes include more than $9 million in funding and program cuts for Alameda County residents.

Valley's new preserve

It's known as "Morgan Territory Preserve" and it is the East Bay Regional Park District's newest addition to its growing roster of "open space" within this end of the county. A startling photo of this rugged terrain is seen on page 15 of today's Times.

Christmas bazaar set

LIVERMORE — "An Old - Fashioned Christmas" is the title of a Christmas bazaar being offered by the Rancho and Henry Schools' parent teacher organization at Henry School, 680 Alameda Drive.

The bazaar is Saturday, Dec. 4, 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Emphasis is on hand - made traditional items, including plants, macrame hangers, dried flower arrangements, dough art plaques, Christmas ornaments, hand - made purses and much more.

A special attraction will be a kids' table, featuring items priced with the finances of a youngster in mind.

Special BART service

Bay Area Rapid Transit officials are calling their "Saturday Special" a success after more than 32,000 people — including 6,300 Cal-Stanford "Big Game" patrons — took to the system on its inaugural run last weekend.

Saturday service will continue through Dec. 18 with trains running from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Express feeder bus service from BART stations to the valley and outlying areas of Contra Costa County will operate in conjunction with the Saturday Special.

Five AC Transit bus routes will serve the valley: Danville, Alamo and San Ramon; Martinez; northeastern Contra Costa County, and Pinole - El Sobrante. Buses will run hourly except on the "M-line," Concord to Martinez, which will run at 30-minute intervals.

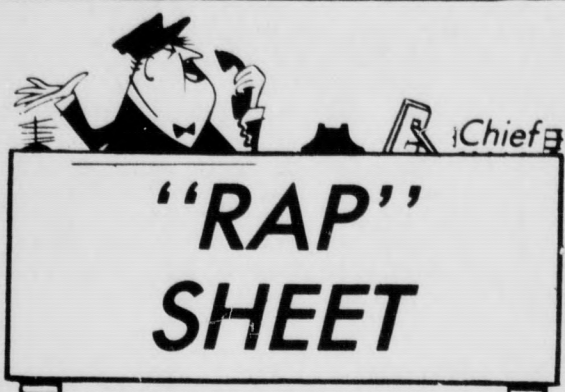

For the first time, non-commute hours service will be offered on the "Q-line" serving Pinole.

Boutique at Barn

Potter Jan Wax of Livermore will have much of her award-winning pottery for sale at the Livermore Art Association's Christmas Boutique Dec. 4 at the Barn. Harried shoppers will find limitless gift possibilities from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., including stained glass ornaments, handmade dolls, dough art and jewelry.

Arco service station on Dublin Boulevard robbed
DUBLIN — Two men robbed attendants at the Arco service station at 7900 Dublin Blvd. of an unknown amount of cash Thanksgiving afternoon, deputies reported. One suspect was arrested Friday and booked on suspicion of robbery.

Deputies said two men who simulated possessing guns approached attendants about 4:50 p.m. Thursday and demanded money. The two fled with an undisclosed amount of cash.

Alfred Gary Frenna, 29, of Komandorski Village was arrested Friday in Dublin and booked on suspicion of armed robbery. His alleged accomplice is described as a white male about 30 years old with dark hair.

The investigation is continuing.
Two youths arrested in Elm Street burglary case
LIVERMORE — Two juveniles were arrested Thursday and a third is being sought in connection with the burglary of a quantity of cash and old coins from an Elm Street residence Nov. 17.

According to reports, an Elm Street resident waited at home expecting to be burglarized due to the number of no message calls left on his automatic telephone answering device over the last few days.

The resident left his home at 2:30 p.m. and returned an hour later to discover that burglars had apparently pried a kitchen window to enter and ransack the house.

A 14-year-old youth with previous convictions for burglary, petty theft, car theft and receiving stolen property was arrested and booked on suspicion of burglary in connection with the case. A 15-year-old girl was also booked later on felony burglary, and another juvenile female is being sought for questioning.

Missing items include approximately $40 cash and a container of old coins including silver dollars.

Officer Brian Woodward conducted the investigation leading to the arrests.

Man with buck knife threatens two persons
LIVERMORE — An armed man flashed a buck knife at two men who attempted to remove him from their truck early Thursday, police reported.

Two students from the College of the Siskiyous told police they exited the Holiday Inn lounge shortly after midnight Wednesday and spotted the door to their truck wide open. Asleep inside on the passenger's side was a bearded man they didn't know.

An argument as to who owned the truck ended when the man pulled a knife and said, "No, it's my truck."

The suspect had departed when the two men returned after phoning police. He is described as a white male, 21-25 years old, 5-foot-11, medium build, blond hair with a brown goatee, a "cowboy accent" and several pieces of turquoise jewelry on his fingers.

Portola's ECE wins good marks

LIVERMORE — Portola School's three-year-old Early Childhood Education (ECE) program is "good" according to state standards.

State monitors visited the school Nov. 16 and 17 and gave the school 161 of a possible 210 points, for an overall score of 3.8 on a scale of 5.

Strongest of the three areas considered was "development and use of the plan," which scored 4.75. Weakest was "continuing program development," scoring 3.5.

The ECE program affects children in kindergarten through third grade. Each year, more schools are phased into the big state-funded project which eventually will encompass all schools.

Purpose of ECE is to improve children's learning in the early grades by pumping more money into the program. There is supposed to be a ratio of one adult to every 10 children, or better. Parents, teachers and aides work together to develop a program tailored to the needs at each school.

Last year's principal, Mary Giorgi, who has left the district, was in charge of setting up this year's program. Joe Malia, formerly of Smith School, is the current principal of Portola. Marge Takemori is this year's facilitator while Joyce Brown is chairperson.

The evaluation team is made up of teachers and principals from other districts, who use a state form for their surveys. They observe the program, collect data and question teachers, parents and students before making their findings.

The team praised Portola's faculty "for understanding that this ECE year can represent a new beginning which can further unity and support for the program."

They also liked "the openness of the school principal in establishing communication and strong support for the ECE program" and the school's psychomotor program.

They made six suggestions for improvement, including:

— open up better communication among teachers, volunteers and aides;

— define the "multicultural" element and use it throughout the program rather than as a single event.

— choose teachers who are enthusiastic about ECE.

— review the reading program.

— survey management system materials "to see that the use of them supports the program."

— increase teachers' skills in individualizing their teaching.

Portola's ranking will place Livermore somewhat lower on the list than in the past for future state funding to expand the local ECE effort. The proportion of funds allowed each district is based on the performance of schools already in the program.

Future visits will be made to Rincon School Feb. 1-2; Arroyo Seco Feb. 8-9; and Henry and Rancho mini-schools Feb. 9-10.

Livermore decorated for Yuletide shopper

LIVERMORE — In spite of a possible flack about Christmas decorations this year, the chamber of commerce's tinsel was wrapped around light poles in this city Friday.

Bells were hung and tinsel trees displayed along the streets of Livermore, getting local residents in the mood for a happy Yule.

Some criticism had been made by Linda Galas, organizer of the Mill Square Merchants. She had noted, "The red, yellow and white plastic decorations are garish and in poor taste."

The chamber is in its third year of a three-year contract with Ketchum Displays of Concord to place the decorations. Funding comes through business taxes collected by the city. At one time, however, the decorations levy was a separate amount billed along with the business tax bill.

"Next year each merchant will do his or her own thing," said Galas. "We'll get together and do something."

May Nissen pool sets winter exercise hours

LIVERMORE — Slim Trim exercises in the water at May Nissen Pool have been scheduled 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays as part of the pool's new winter schedule.

Officials of Livermore Area Recreation and Park District stressed participants do not have to know how to swim. Admission is 50 cents.

An adult noon swim from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. is scheduled Monday through Friday. Cost is 25 cents.

An adult evening swim will be held 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at a cost of 25 cents.

LARP has also scheduled handicapped swim lessons 1:30 to 3 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Cost for the six half-hour lessons is $4.00.

Adult lessons at $1.00 each are available by appointment. They are scheduled 1:00 to 1:30 p.m., Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Sunday, 1-3 p.m. is set for family swim and adult laps. Cost is 20 cents for pre-school age children, 25 cents for school youngsters and 40 cents for adults.

The pool, with winter temperatures ranging from 82 to 84 degrees, is located at 685 Rincon Ave. For more information call 455-6640.

Friends may call at the Livermore Mortuary, 3070 East Avenue, Livermore, this afternoon or this evening.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be held Monday, 10 a.m. in St. Michael's Catholic Church.

Board chairman Cooper

County asks tax relief

Alameda County Bureau

The citadel of state government, its battlements fortified with the awesome authority of property tax, faces an unswerving assault from county government this year as Legislators prepare for their new session.

Leading the charge, at least on the northern front, will be Alameda County Board of Supervisors Chairman Fred F. Cooper. He's already offered Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., a respite in the battle.

Admitting in a letter to Brown that "I am not sure the solution can be found," Cooper proposes an end to "finger pointing" between the two as one tries to lay blame on the other.

Teacher talks to resume in Pleasanton

While the Amador Valley Joint High School District's new teacher unit representation ponders a call for fact-finding, Pleasanton district teacher contract negotiations are expected to meet again in mediation within the next few days.

Amador district teachers are now represented by a completely new negotiating team and teacher unit leadership in the wake of a 115-66 turnout of a tentative contract agreement 2½ weeks ago.

Fact-finding is the next step in the collective bargaining sequence after mediation attempts fail.

The call for fact-finding was issued as David Woolworth was appointed as president of the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association to succeed Jim Eaton. Vice-president Jim Carroll also resigned.

Enoch Haga, a Dublin High School faculty member like Woolworth, heads the negotiating team.

Approximately 45 placard-carrying Amador district teachers circled the district offices in Pleasanton Wednesday in the latest act to impress their contract requests on district administration and the public.

Like teachers in the Pleasanton district, the chief stumbling block towards cementing a 1976-77 contract has been binding arbitration of grievances.

Pleasanton teachers are also split with administration over percentage increase of salary and benefits, agency shop and assignment and transfer policy.

To date, Murray School District is the only district in the valley to have both teacher representatives and school board members ratify a 1976-77 contract.

36 acres added to Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — The city council approved Frank Auf der Mauer's 36-acre annexation on Stanley Boulevard Monday night.

Councilman Ken Mercer noted that the city has a moratorium on annexations, but Auf der Mauer applied for his annexation March 8 prior to the council adoption of the moratorium.

The Local Agency Formation Commission of Alameda County approved the annexation Oct. 28 and authorized the city to proceed with the annexation without notice or hearing because all property owners in the annexation signed a petition agreeing to it.

Cooper says the Governor does not recognize "some factors" in the property tax problem.

He cites a de facto "oil tax," environmentalism and consumerism, and admonishes the Governor that counties, too, must absorb skyrocketing costs.

And, like private citizens, inflation has outstripped any "cost of living" increases garnered from property tax hikes.

Cooper calls it a "legitimate complaint" against the state for funding neither mandated higher levels of service nor new programs.

"And (I) think it unfair for you and the Legislature to point the finger of blame at local government when you are not willing to recognize (our) problem."

For his part, Brown is quoted as saying: "The fact is, we have to live within our means. There are so many cookies in the jar ... Some shift (in the property tax burden) may be in order, but I have yet to see the bill that will relieve property taxes and (also) relieve all other taxes."

The newscipping quotes Brown as claiming the last property tax reform measure adopted during former Gov. Ronald Reagan's term added to the state's own burden while local governments found new programs to finance with property tax money made available by state relief.

Official reports city subsidies

PLEASANTON — The city is involved in at least 24 area, state and federal grant programs, according to Director of Engineering Services Don Sooby.

Sooby noted in a city hall press release that his list of 24 subsidized projects was compiled in conversations with the city hall staff and may or may not be a complete listing. "It is rather startling, though," remarked Sooby.

Among the grant programs are funds for bicycle and pedestrian facilities, the federal urban aid program for road construction, a Safer Roads demonstration project, the 1974 Proposition One funds approved by voters that year to subsidize park improvements, and a land and water conservation grant, also for parks.

Other outside sources for funds include SB 174 program for parks, the Public Works Employment Act of 1976, a pavement parking demonstration fund, a fund for correcting high hazard locations, another fund for eliminating roadside obstacles, and a clean water grant.

There is also a grade crossing protection program, a planning grant to help fund the research into the city's growth management program, funds from the Housing and Community Development Act, and CETA federal money which currently pays the salaries of five temporary staff members.

Other programs include an Office of Traffic Safety grant which has funded a consultant to work with citizens establishing a traffic safety program, an Associated Community Action Program grant for recreation at Komandorski Village, general federal revenue sharing, Alameda County revenue sharing whose funds go to senior transportation, ACAP/ACTEB technical assistance program, Strategic Team Enforcement Program which educates the community about how to foil burglaries, Horizons drug counseling program, and the Cranston Act which is subsidizing Alameda County rescue vehicles.

Pleasanton board eyes test scores

PLEASANTON — Results of second, third and sixth grade students on state tests given in 1975-76 will be presented to the Pleasanton Joint School District Board of Trustees at their Wednesday meeting.

Trustees meet at 7:30 p.m. in the District Education Center, 123 Main St.

Presentation and analysis of results will be made by Gloria Jones, director of pupil personnel services for the district.

The board is also slated to act on first readings of policies on parental and pupil complaints and rights of review, non-discrimination in admittance, assignment and participation of pupils in educational programs, activities and services, and authorization for attending meetings and conferences.

A resolution concerning election expense, establishing of 1977 summer school dates, authorization to employ district architect for repair work, and a Fairlands School report are also on the agenda.

Disastrous year for agriculture in California

Natural and man-made disasters struck in 1976 to rob California farmers of more than a billion dollars. An extended drought, two harvest-time strikes, unseasonal rains and a citrus freeze combined to make this the most frustrating production year in history.

The billion dollar loss figure is totaled in a report released by the California Farm Bureau Federation. Fred Heringer, president of the California Farm Bureau, said the setbacks could put some farmers out of business.

"Nearly every farmer suffered to some extent, but for some of the losses were catastrophic. Production from entire orchards was lost, cattlemen without feed or pasture were forced to liquidate," said Heringer.

"Cattlemen as a group are in the most serious trouble. Poor market prices and limited grazing due to the drought have extended a large number of ranchers to their limit," Heringer warned. An alarming number of cattlemen are close to bankruptcy, reports the farm organization.

A July canning strike touched off heavy crop losses. Losses were then compounded when unseasonal rains hit California in August and September. Crops suffering the greatest damage were apricots, raisins, dates, figs, tomatoes, peaches, lettuce and dry beans.

Other losses resulted when frozen food workers struck for five weeks causing losses to vegetables. A freeze in January damaged the state's citrus crops.

Consumers will undoubtedly feel the impact in higher prices, but farmers stand to lose the most. The losses represent profit that farmers would normally earn.

"We're conditioned to risks in farming, but never before have we been hit from so many sides at once," Heringer said. "Most of the losses were especially hard to take since the farmers lost both the value of the crop plus a year's investment in materials and labor."

"The problems may not be over. A return to dry weather in October and early November increased concern that the state could be in for another dry winter. Reservoirs are dangerously low. If it stays abnormally dry, 1977 could be worse than 1976."

Transit deficit studied

Alameda County Bureau
Some hefty, expensive solutions to a projected quarter-billion deficit in Bay Area mass transit — including $1 bridge tolls and a surcharge on auto licenses — will get one more airing before going on to the Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

MTC's financial steering committee will review its controversial five-point funding program at 8:30 a.m. this Friday in the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's board room, 800 Madison St., Oakland.

The committee has proposed $1 tolls on the Bay, San Mateo and Dunbarton Bridges, along with increased fares to bring BART, AC Transit and San Francisco Muni fare box revenues to 35 per cent of operating costs. They now yield about 25 per cent.

The temporary half-cent sales tax paid in the three BART counties should be made permanent, according to the committee, with all funds going to support BART.

But state Transportation Development Act and federal Urban Mass Transit Administration monies would go to AC Transit and the SF Muni, suggests the committee, thus ending the three way fight over the added sales tax revenue.

If state law cannot be amended to funnel gasoline excise tax to regional transit programs, the committee wants a surcharge on automobile licenses.

MTC also should retain power through its "discretionary allocation authority" to "insure present levels of public transit are maintained," according to the draft proposals.

The $39 million BART borrowed from the state to build the transbay tube should be "forgiven," the committee adds.

State legislation extending the half-cent BART sales tax through June, 1978, orders MTC to develop a transit financing report.

That draft must be in the state's hands by Jan. 10.

Pre-Christmas bargain in the Parks

Even the state parks department is having a pre-Christmas special.

It's your choice of three bargains:
— A $15 day - use permit for state beaches, parks and recreation areas, good for the rest of 1976 and all of 1977. The permit can be used in place of the $1.50 per day per vehicle charge — which means that after the tenth time you use one of the parks, it's free.

— A combination day - use and boat launching permit for $30, to be used instead of the daily $1.50 vehicle parking fee and the $1.50 boat launching fee at all state park units that offer boating.

— A $20 off - season camping ticket book contains 10 tickets, each good for one campsite for one night on a first - come, first served basis during the off season (winter at many state parks and summer at some desert parks.)

The tickets can be used instead of the regular charge of $2 to $5 a night per campsite at most parks.

To order any of these by mail, send a check or money order to Department of Parks and Recreation, P.O. Box 2858, Sacramento, CA 95812. They may also be picked up at most state park offices.

Holiday schedule given for historical parks

Most state historic parks will be closed to the public on Christmas and New Year's Day.

Closed on Christmas but open on New Year's will be Hearst San Simeon State Historical Monument and state - operated buildings in Columbia State Historic Park in Tuolumne County.

Open on both big holidays will be El Presidio de

Santa Barbara, Indian Grinding Rock in Amador County and San Pasqual Battlefield in San Diego County.

All other state historic parks will be closed on both holidays. All state park units other than historic parks will remain open on all three holidays. All concessions are normally open on all weekends and holidays.

CCC report pegs gloom for future

CONTRA COSTA CURRENTS
By PAT KEEBLE
Leshner News Bureau

Suburban prosperity, supported for so long by rapid growth, seems to be in trouble.

That at least is the message in a new report, "Contra Costa County, A Profile," released by the county Planning Department last week.

The 145-page book is chockful of statistical information on many phases of suburban living and local government — sort of everything you always wanted to know about Contra Costa and couldn't be bothered to ask.

Such as a quarter of the county's farms are less than 10 acres in size ... or that in 1970, 17 per cent of the people of Pittsburg and 5 per cent of the people of Concord were below the poverty level ... or that 12,500 acres of the county's 473,600 are under water.

Interwoven among these facts is a message that times are liable to remain tough for many county residents. This is particularly true of those who are buying homes or looking for jobs, or those who look to local government to provide services.

The report predicts the county's population will go from 582,800 counted in last year's special census to 622,100 in 1980.

Statistics indicated the county is a growing employment center for the Bay Area, and a growth in both the number of business establishments and total employment.

Total employment in the county should reach 171,500 by 1980, an increase of 10,700 or 6.7 per cent over 1975.

But the labor force at the same time will go up from 37,730 persons or 15 per cent.

Thus many workers living in the county will continue to find employment in Alameda and San Francisco counties. Currently, the county says, about 50,000 Contra Costans work in Alameda and about 30,000 in San Francisco.

Even so, the report states, "if the county's unemployment rate is not to rise substantially as 1980 approaches, jobs available locally will have to be supplemented by outside areas or new employment strategies developed."

The report does not go into detail about how much such proposals as the Dow Chemical Co. expansion would contribute to employment.

The report shows the county-wide average income per family was $15,026 last year. It was higher in all of the Central County except Martinez, and lower for every other incorporated community except El Cerrito.

By 1975, the number of households earning over $15,000 had increased 29 per cent over the same number five years earlier. The average was more than $4,000 or 36 per cent above that of 1970. But when adjusted for inflation, the real increase was only 8 per cent.

Many households rose from the less-than-$6,000 category to the $6,000-$9,000 category solely on the basis of inflation, the report states.

"Continuing increases in prices often exceed wage adjustments," the report said, "and especially the elderly and low income families find it increasingly difficult to maintain a given standard of living."

"Continuing inflation is likely to affect county government as more people become eligible for public social service programs and financial assistance," it added.

One major effect of inflation will continue to be the rise in home prices.

"Cost of housing has reached such high levels that not only low income families, but also many families with moderate incomes have been priced out of the single family home market," the report said.

Until two years ago, increases in income generally kept pace with rising home values, but two years ago the home prices started surging ahead.

Last year the average sale price for a home in the Central County was $55,700, and in the West County $33,700.

Some 71 per cent of Contra Costans own the homes in which they live. But with higher costs, both owners and renters are being forced to pay an excessive portion of their incomes for housing, the statistics indicated.

A major concern of the county government, of course, is how such an economic picture affects services. And county officials used the profile to again state that times are tough and may get tougher.

Public schools and the delivery of social and health services have already been severely affected by revenue cuts, the report noted, adding that "funding levels for local government agencies are unlikely to keep pace with increasing costs."

Solving the problems will be difficult because the underlying causes "are issues not only in our county but throughout the region, state and nation."

More than ever, it seems, the tone set by the lawmakers in Sacramento and Washington will determine the problems and solutions to government in Contra Costa.

Dublin first

Every time there is mention about Dublin's finances or its future, some eager reporter is certain to add — "But there is little chance right now of merging Dublin and Pleasanton into one city."

There is "no chance right now" of doing anything whatsoever with "Dublin and Pleasanton" simply because neither community shows any desire to initiate such a move. Fact is there has been no official talk of a merger since that first ballot on the subject, in June of 1967. That suggestion passed narrowly in Pleasanton, failed handsomely in Dublin, and that was that.

Both communities have moved along quite nicely in the intervening years. If there have been problems, they were the result of dynamic growth, and never because one place or the other was dragging its feet.

This is not to suggest that Pleasanton and Dublin will never, never get together. But not in the foreseeable future; and certainly not until Dublin has tested its own desires for incorporation as a city unto itself. A community's first obligation is to its own people, and that is what Dublin must do; that is what has Pleasanton been doing for almost 100 years.

The lab and us

First there was that issue of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory "Newswire" which revealed frightening gains by the Soviet Union in the nuclear arms race. When this newspaper advised its readers that the controversial LLL information piece was being withheld from distribution, for reasons unknown, there followed some embarrassing rumblings from the Lab.

One week later a top team of LLL scientists sat down with the press and "talked frankly" about that same nuclear gap.

The problem, as these gentlemen see it, is that the USSR is spending more money for nuclear weapons than is the United States of America. That poses a dire threat to this nation, again in their view.

Frankly, we don't have the expertise to judge whether what the LLL scientists tell us is fact, or political fantasy born of a simple desire to keep the Livermore Lab funded and in the public focus. But even that latter reason, if true, is acceptable.

We have always contended that Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, as a major local industry, has an obligation to involve the local populace in more of that huge plant's affairs. It is not enough to post "SUPER SECRET" on the gates and expect the rest of us to simply back off.

Responsible for well in excess of 6000 local jobs and without question the biggest single factor in this Valley's economic, sociological and even political life, the LLL and its Sandia cousin are always going to have considerable impact on 150,000 residents in communities spread from Danville to Sunol.

For those of us who must build our home, our business and our community trusting that "the Lab isn't going to shut down next year," some insight into the nuclear industry's purpose, and its future, is vital.

That is why the evidence of five Livermore Lab scientists sitting down with the press "telling it like it is" was encouraging. We would hope that portends more frank talk with the local community and not, as some suggest, the last gasp of free speech from behind those East Avenue fences.

The week in retrospect

'Problem child'

There are parents in this valley who are at their wit's end because their children have fallen far behind at school due to physical and/or emotional problems.

The frustration comes from not knowing exactly what to do to alleviate the situation or being put off or given the run-around by school administrators or individual staff members.

However, the state of education has made tremendous strides in the last decade in the area of identifying the causes behind those children designated as educationally handicapped, "slow learners" or "under-achievers."

The child in the fourth, fifth or sixth grade, for example, who is reading at first grade level and/or has great difficulty with simple arithmetic and can only print or write illegibly, can be a social problem also.

It is really a vicious circle that causes great frustration on the part of not only the child, but the parent, teacher and administrator.

In the past decade more emphasis has been placed on nutrition as a potential source of a child's problems. More and more of the general public have become aware that certain foods containing artificial preservatives or dyes can be quite harmful.

We are now realizing that those attractively packaged foods in the supermarket or the "fast foods" wolfed down while on the run can have residual affect on performance in the classroom and conduct at home and school.

This is not to say that foodstuffs ingested are the sole root of learning and social problems.

Certainly the environment that a child lives in is all-important.

Thoughtful guidance and encouragement at home AND at school can turn a slow learner or under-achiever into an eager and receptive student able to function with his peers.

Schools, both public and private, utilize a variety of methods to help the type of children we are discussing.

But unless the parent knows what is available or recourses open, frustration will continue to fill the void.

For the parent, then, who believes his or her child is falling behind or is now far below grade level in the key three R's, whatever the reasons might be, the first point of contact should be the school principal.

Auxiliary people to contact, depending on what the parent considers the child's problem, include the district psychologist, health personnel, nutritionist, special education coordinator or pupil personnel services director.

There are also numerous private or church-oriented programs that parents might be interested in exploring. Two that come to mind include The Ark and Valley Christian Center.

The latter, for example, has a perceptual skills segment in its program that can have a very positive affect on a young child's learning habits.

This segment involves primary age children spending one hour each week learning to skate and making various movements while on skates.

The use of movement as a learning channel is not new. Montessori urged a multi-sensory approach around the turn of the century and Mable Fernald in the 1920s and 1930s employed kinesthetic learning to improve reading, letter recognition, and hand writing skills.

At Valley Christian Center, academic work is integrated with activities in perceptual motor movements, playground activities, and with socialization activities.

The key to the total situation, then, is understanding the child has a problem and taking the quickest possible and most effective action.

Shocking report

An alarming report on housing conditions in the golden state suggests that possibly half of the population in this bountiful land is living in or near poverty. That is the conclusion which must be drawn from a report by Arnold C. Sternberg, director of the Housing and Community Development department.

Issued shortly before the election it escaped wide attention during the heat of the political campaigns. Even the post election hearings on proposals to remedy statewide the housing deficiencies found by the agency went largely unnoticed. The findings and recommendations on housing will be submitted to the Legislature by February 1.

The suggestion that so many Californians are being subjected to poverty due to housing is found in Sternberg's declaration that 23 per cent of the total state households pay more than 25 per cent of their income for housing. If the average household is composed of only two persons it would mean close to half of the total population is being compelled to pay housing costs in excess of what is considered appropriate.

Further disclosures are that 500,000 households are overcrowded; 748,000 dwelling units need to be rehabilitated and 320,000 are beyond repair. Stating that 285,000 housing units must be built each year through 1980, Sternberg observes that six out of ten families cannot afford single family homes at current costs estimated by him to be $40,000.

He said that the low rental factor of 3.8 per cent is responsible for driving rental prices upwards thereby causing extreme hardships for low or moderate income families as well as minorities, handicapped and elderly. He reported that 45 per cent of California households are renters.

In describing his report as "a set of very unpleasant facts about housing conditions in California" Sternberg said "It has been our job to dredge up the real and disturbing story on housing in California and to prescribe the statewide commitment it will take to produce decent homes for everyone."

Sternberg says his "catalog of realistic remedies will place heavy demands on State government, on the taxpaying public and on the entire private business and financial community." He pinpointed 25 suggestions which he said were among the many recommendations which would be contained in a series of legislative measures designed to make housing "more available, more affordable and more suitable."

Five of these proposals deal with financing and include the channeling of public fund deposits to expand availability of loans in home construction and purchase; giving mortgage priorities to those with low and moderate incomes; giving financial assistance to low and moderate income families to facilitate home ownership; requiring relocation payments to displacees of rehabilitation and code enforcement projects; and the use of state funds for local community redevelopment efforts. He also recommends property tax incentives for the rehabilitation of existing housing.

Other recommendations concern building codes, calling for them to be "realistic consistent with minimum standards of health and safety," and support "managed" growth and development as well as encouraging "sound redevelopment of deteriorating communities."

No doubt there is a real need to spur homebuilding and home ownership and Sternberg's urging of the use of new technologies in housing construction" is well taken. The report however fails to point the finger at oppressive property taxes which is a significant factor in the high costs of both ownership and rental.

And although he repeatedly uses the word "realistic" some of the recommendations seem to stray into social problems not directly related to the goal of providing adequate housing as in the "encouraging access to employment and entrepreneurship by minorities in the housing industry."

Also the aim of providing "a decent home and a suitable living environment for every family" sounds a bit Utopian.

Editor, Times:

Cub Scout Pack No. 942 wishes to extend a special thanks to our judges who shared a difficult task at the November 19th Pack meeting. They had to select six out of thirty-two entries in a Genius Kit Contest.

Our best wishes go to Mayor H. Tirsell, Hon. Mark Eaton, Mrs. Les Imel of Arroyo Mocho, Mr. Barry Schrader of the Tri Valley Herald and Mr. Neil Heilpern of the Valley Times.

love to match her breathy utterance with an address.

"I bet I know where it bit, too," suggests another long hauler.

"I'll bite her," volunteers yet another.

She keeps the puppets on a string with jokes about itchy fingers and other relevant bits of anatomy. When she breaks in, gears slip all over the Bay Area.

Of course Citizen Band radio wasn't designed for such faceless ribaldry. It serves a useful purpose that can be undermined by people who have outgrown marbles yet still require toys.

But before Sonny and Will, before Dave Dudley, and certainly before Convoy, truckers utilized the Citizen's Band.

Air waves were once the exclusive province of Lone Dog, Shady Lady, and their brethren.

Abuses developed only after Madison Avenue transformed CB into a national mania. Now there's a waiting list to use one of the 23 existing channels. They're boosting it to 40 channels come Jan. 1 and even that won't be enough.

There are too many looks out there who fulfill dreams by double clutching the Hillman and shouting "This is the Wild One," into a microphone.

They should be locked in a closet with Shady Lady for just one afternoon. She'd eat 'em alive.

round the town

For those of you who followed the deathless prose this column provided on "The Problems of Grandparenting," I have tremendous news. We are going into production with "GRANDPARENTING II."

Actually, it will be "Grandparenting III." That is if you count each new arrival as a single Roman numeral. Yes, dear hearts, the Australian clan is coming forth with their third edition. Due in June, we are advised. (They must have no sooner gotten inspired than they flashed the word; which we promptly share with you. Doesn't take nine months for news to get around these days.)

"Michaelen Marie and Tuny Marie are going to have a new playmate." That's the way the happy mother put it. If it's a girl, and knowing the personality of those first two, I will suggest "Marie Antoinette" as a likely handle. They're all swingers, and have a flare for the good life.

Which isn't easy, living on the bottom side of the earth. More so when you're 20 miles from the nearest store, 80 miles from the closest "city." Last time we visited with the young father and mother they still hadn't decided how they were going to get Michaelen to grammar school, about 30 miles down the road. Even the nearest school bus stop was a dozen miles or more from "Thorpedale."

Now that they have two scholars in hand, and one on the back burner, maybe the Queensland school authorities would consider a special bus. "The Thorpedale Express."

Then again, Deirdree might follow the example of her own mother. Gave five children their grammar school lessons in the kitchen. With the help of a teacher's correspondence course, and lots of postage stamps.

Judging by the way Deirdree and her brother and three sisters turned out, I am a believer in the kitchen classroom. But it's a little tough on the mother, who must also double as cook, ranch hand, milker of cows, soother of harried husband.

And husbands do get harried down there, even in that land of low taxes and pure air. They sit around of an evening and talk about the weather, the poor market, the latest plague, and "the bloody government" which is apparently the cause of all their woe. To that extent, things aren't much different Down Under than they are on the Upside of Earth, in happy Carter land.

Except the Aussie Outbackers seem so much more positive, for some strange reason. A stranger would think the mice and the locusts, the sudden hordes of kangaroo and the absence of rain, would be enough to make any man bitter. But not the Australian rancher. And not the wives. Never the wives.

"Sit down for a spot of tea and things will look brighter."

That's the patented rancher's remedy. For holocausts of all sizes. More than three holocausts in one day and they get shickered.

"Got drunk as Chloe," the woeful Aussie will confess.

"That's allright Luv," the faithful missus will say. "Have a spot u' tea to help set you right."

I cannot be certain that is the response of every Australian ranch wife, every time her man gets shickered. But there are times, Down Under, when there's no other course to take!

*There are many good reasons for drinking —
And one has just entered my head:
If a man doesn't drink when he's living,
How the hell can he drink when he's dead!*

I was always impressed with the Aussie logic. I was even more impressed with his ability to lay away a half dozen bottles of Double XX brew, and then shout - to for more.

When No. 3 arrives at "Thorpedale" it will be occasion for a grand gathering. They will come from ranches 20 miles down the road, and they will take the four - day drive from stations in the Northern Territory. There is no social occasion, in the rugged land Down Under, to quite match the arrival of a new baby.

I wish I could be there. Where's the joy in Grandparenting if you have to sit around way over here, while they're way over there, having all the fun.

CB Momma

You'll find her at channel 17 on the Citizen's Band radio network — the one all the trucker's tune in. Her handle is "Shady Lady." Her self-styled role — injecting a few decibels of audible sunshine into the daily drone of guys who make long hauls in big rigs.

She's a one-woman U.S.O. for sailors on the concrete sea.

And if The Lady's tantalizing language borders on soft pornography, and rubs against the dictates of the FCC, well, she's no more a menace than all the other morons who've turned CB radios into the Tinker Toys of sound.

We can't be sure where Shady Lady lives. For good reason, she won't say. Some of her listeners guess Pleasanton. Others figure Dublin. Regardless, she's a tonic for the gear-jammers who pilot their 18-wheel payloads through the valley.

Heaven knows they need an angel. In this region truckers are one step up from kidnappers who'd bury kids in a quarry. Pleasanton residents moan about the gravel haulers who mangle the roadbed, jar the homes and spew rock all over cars along First Street.

In Livermore they grouse about the owner - operators who berth their tractor - trailers in long lines down Portola Avenue.

Across the nation they love the guys in the trucks that Peter Built. Out here, they thumb their noses. That's why The Lady attracts such an audience.

She's sympathetic to anyone who ever contracted White Line Fever. She knows what it's like when you're Six Days on the Road and in danger of not making it home tonight.

That worldly, lusty voice is a warm friend to cuddle up to in the cab — the suggestive phraeseology a tonic to keep the motor charged.

When she's home and the set's turned on, Shady Lady conducts her round table discussions with 10 truckers at once. The banter is randy and the trick is to outshine all the other good buddies on the road with a remark that stops just short of X-rating.

"Breaker breaker, this is Lone Dog," comes a cackle out of San Francisco. "Go ahead breaker," says The Lady as if she were CB central, orchestrating all the air wave chatter for Northern California.

"This is Lone Dog just leaving San Francisco and saying that the weather's beautiful, it's a beautiful day, and I just want to wish everybody good numbers and all that kind of garbage."

"Well, that's fine," says Shady Lady, "but I'm stuck at home here today. I think the bug bit me."

"The love bug," chimes an 18-wheeler who'd

More smokes out

Editor, The Times:

"The Great American Smokeout" is history now and by every indication it was a most successful campaign. In a telephone survey that the American Cancer Society conducted in Alameda County and around the Bay area on the morning of the 18th, we found that approximately 3 out of 10 people who said they were smokers were trying to quit for the day. We feel this tremendous participation (we were hoping for 2 out of 10) could only have been made possible by the support you gave to this light-hearted approach to a serious health problem. We sincerely thank you.

We found that a great deal of interest for "The Great American Smokeout" came from large companies, hospitals and clubs and organizations; they would have liked the "Smokeout" to continue so their employees and members could have an even better opportunity to kick the habit for good.

In Alameda County the ACS is going to give them that chance. On January 3, 1977, a 14-day "Kiss Me, I Don't Smoke-a-Thon," will be conducted taking over where the "Great American Smokeout" left off. We're expecting considerable interest for this new opportunity to quit smoking from the same businesses, clubs, and organizations.

For Sunday, Nov. 28, 1976
ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 You'll be difficult to reach today because you're not apt to tell others what's on your mind. Open up. Let your hair down.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Don't make mountains out of molehills today. You're a bit too sensitive and you're prone to treat minor infractions too seriously.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 A wise man once said, "It isn't whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game." A good thing for you to recall today.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Others are likely to find fault with your views today because of the way you plead your case. Don't be apologetic if trying to sell bold daring ideas.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Mixing business and pleasure is an elixir that will turn bitter in the glass. Put aside the pursuit of profit. Just have some fun.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 You're not very cooperative today, particularly with those you care the most for. Oddly enough, you'll feel their requests infringe upon your time.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
 Concentrate on what you do today, especially if working with sharp tools. You must be extra-safety-conscious.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
 The long shot may be more appealing to you today than the sure thing. Realistically this will only get you a bunch of losing tickets.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
 You have a low boiling point today. Laugh off the trivial like you usually do.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Instead of looking for hidden meanings, take peoples' actions more at face value. You're reading more into them than is really there.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
 Leave your credit cards at home today if you'll be out with high rollers - or you'll wind up in the deficit column.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
 You'll feel uncomfortable among aggressive people today. Seek the company of friends who have no axes to grind.

'Don't glamorize booze!'

Dee Schmidt looks up from the pile of newspaper and magazine clippings, shakes her head and laments how the "glamorization of alcohol in almost everything we do encourages teenagers to drink."

Dee has saved the clippings for several months to prove her point. "Here's one," she says, holding one for a visitor to view. "A church art show and wine tasting party."

And another: "The Mardi Gras ball last January, with pictures showing people with glasses in their hands. It was a worthwhile cause, but why emphasize the drinking?"

Then there were clippings of store openings with more champagne, the bridge parties with spiked punch, a cocktail party to "kick off a pet drive," etc.

She complains the media uses "the magic prop" too much and glamorizes drinking.

"This gives our youth the idea the only way to have fun at a social activity is to drink alcohol like the adults," she says.

"How do children learn to talk and walk — by imitation," she added. "What kind of example are we setting if everything we do revolves around alcohol?"

Her basic answer to the problem is more family unity.

"If a young person knows he is loved and the parents are concerned," she told The Times, "chances are he will have a good self image and stay away from alcohol."

Dee is the product of an alcoholic family and recalls her childhood thoughts that "If I did the same thing as my parents I'd end up the same way they are."

As a young adult she drank socially but knew the dangers and usual pressures with growing up. She had a strong enough feeling about self preservation.

She and her husband have an eight year old son, Todd, who gets the admonition while viewing a glamorized drinking scene on television: "Remember now, that is not real life."

Her formula for more family unity is for parents to become interested in their children's affairs, whether it be Brownies, PTA meeting attendance, school plays or daily activities.

"It is devastating to the kid if parents do not participate or take an interest in some activity," she said.

She suggests adults encourage youngsters to have functions that are not necessarily "puppet activities."

"Let them be their own leaders," she adds.

"Why do kids drink," she asks. "There is too much emphasis on the macho image in society, creating peer group pressure."

"It's more important to be an individual than to be cool."

Parents should set aside at least one day a week to be with their children, she says, and "not let anything interfere with it."

This is her answer. More family unity — less teenage drinking. And she flips through more clippings, holding up an occasional photo with someone holding a glass. The last clipping shows some teenagers holding beer bottles.

A suburban problem Some financial tips for two-income families

More and more Valley families are turning to a second income to support their suburban lifestyle — and the money management problems that crop up can become cause for dismay.

Bank of America's latest Consumer Information Report, called "Money Management for the Two - Income family," tells about California law and gives suggestions for handling the second income.

"In California, the income you earn after marriage legally belongs as much to your spouse as it does to you," the booklet says.

This community property concept is one of many factors couples having "his" and "hers" paychecks must consider in planning their family budgets. This law means either spouse has the right to act alone in controlling and managing almost all community property, the report states.

"Generally, most property acquired after marriage is considered community property unless otherwise agreed upon, and separate property includes anything you owned before marriage or anything you alone receive as a gift or inheritance."

Budgeting, says the report, takes on increased importance when two incomes are involved. As usual, it's a control on spending but it can also clearly outline financial responsibilities.

The report offers three basic alternatives for financial planning: pooling both incomes, pooling parts of two incomes, maintaining separate incomes.

Pooling both incomes, the report says, is the simplest and most economical budgeting method, requiring just one joint checking account and thus a minimum of service charges. However, this method also requires a high degree of cooperation to work well.

"Pooling part of your incomes and reserving the rest is a flexible approach providing for both separate and joint needs," the report says.

It requires three checking accounts, however — two separate and one joint — and thus entails more bookkeeping.

The third option, totally separating the income and expenses, preserves each spouse's financial identity which could be important for tax or business related purposes, the report says, adding, "This system, too, is a bookkeeping headache."

Two - income couples have to spend money to make money. Most jobs, the booklet says, entail extra spending on items like transportation, clothing and lunches.

But new costs can also extend to more expensive items like child care, household help and even eating out more often.

Couples must periodically take a hard look at the cost of two careers.

"To calculate the expenses of earning two incomes," the report advises, "single out of the budget any expenses directly related to the fact that both of you work. Subtract these from your combined take-home pay."

Next, calculate present or expected financial benefits of both working, for instance, greater insurance coverage and better fringe benefits.

"Then, if added real costs are greater than the benefits, you might reconsider the actual cash value of two careers," the report advises.

Cooperation, the report concludes, is the key to the successful management of two incomes.

CC's Methadone program 'best'

MARTINEZ — Contra Costa County's methadone program has been called one of the finest in California by a state drug control evaluation team.

But the team urged the county to put more money into the program. This would cut down on a waiting list which keeps some applicants waiting up to a year.

Maintenance clinics, which dispense methadone to addicts, are located in Pittsburg and Richmond. Together they are able to handle a caseload of 130 persons at any given time.

The detoxification clinic at the county hospital in Martinez can take care of 65 persons.

During the first six months of 1976, the methadone program accepted 493 maintenance and 36 detoxification clients.

The methadone maintenance program operates on $382,562 in Short-Doyle mental health funds and $42,618 in county funds.

The detox part of the program is funded through a federal grant of $77,350 and $33,150 in county money. The county is only required to pay 30 per cent of the costs of that program.

"But the county has been giving more to help meet the need," explained Claude Van Marter, Human Resources Agency director.

Clients of both programs contribute $20 a month toward their treatment.

The evaluation team suggested that the county should explore the possibility of soliciting funds from local civic groups in order to serve more people.

The evaluation team was impressed with the high quality of the staff in counseling and in finding community resources.

The methadone treatment program has been in operation for five years. The detox program began about a year ago.

Benefit bazaar slated to aid student loans

LIVERMORE — A struggling new student loan fund will get a shot in the arm this weekend with proceeds from a combination bazaar and garage sale to be held Saturday at 1106 Marigold Road.

The sale lasts from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The "CIHU" (Can I Help You?) Fund was launched last year in memory of William R. Hopkins of Livermore. Needy students may apply for the loan if they wish to continue their education in the third or fourth year of college or at the graduate level and "if they wish to give Christian service to serve mankind as a layman or professional," according to Maria Hopkins.

Maria's new book of poems will be for sale along with other new and used items.

"The seven loan fund trustees are Dick Hopkins, Richard Flores, Edward Vince, Dr. Darryl Mailander, Angie Turner (secretary), Mary Frame (treasurer) and Maria Hopkins (chair).

The CIHU Fund is intended "to promote peace and show the recipient what Christian love can do."

Correia sets AV record

HAYWARD — Junior striker Joe Correia became Amador Valley High School's all-time best statistical offensive soccer threat as the Dons ended a brief pre-season with a 2-0 win over Moreau at White Field here last night.

Correia meshed the 36th goal of his little - more - than half-finished varsity career 22:25 before the end of the game on a give - and - go with right wing Greg Oxsen.

The three dozen goals, combined with 14 lifetime assists, give Correia a total of 50, beating the old record of 49, set by Scott Stisser in 1974.

The other goal had come 13 minutes into the game when Kevin Crow converted a perfectly - timed inside - out pass by Keith Clay from 16 yards away.

The whole scenario pleased AV coach Mike Geib.

"By the time Joe's through, the record's liable to be out of sight," he said of Correia, who began his onslaught as a freshman two years ago. "But with the kind of start Crow (a sophomore) is getting off to, you never know."

Geib praised starting midfielders Brad Bolbrini and Clay in addition to halfback Armando Cano and wing Steve Blalock.

On defense, he pointed to Len Baine and Steve Englebrick. The latter was forced in to the game when starter Mike Wilcox had his once - broken nose bloodied in the first half.

The Dons outshot Moreau, 21-7 but were called for six offsides and 18 fouls as opposed to one and 12 for the Mariners. Amador goalie David Perez had eight saves while Moreau's Chuck Spink had nine.

Erratic Mats tie DLS

Granada High School's soccer team came through with a Jekyll and Hyde performance Friday afternoon and ended up in a scoreless tie with visiting De La Salle.

The Matadors, now 1-0-1 in non - league action, had an almost non-existent offense in the first half, getting only two shots on goal against 10 for the Spartans.

However, the second half saw a complete turnaround for Granada. The Matadors, who were unable to penetrate a tight De La Salle defense in the first period, broke through for 11 shots on goal and the Spartans got but four.

Keith Teel led the Granada offensive charge in the second period, narrowly missing two shots. Teel's second attempt was a header about five minutes into the half which bounced just over the nets.

After that, both teams battled back and fourth across the field with any success. The Matadors were hampered by the loss of offensive ace Shannon Estill, who was ejected from the game in the first half. He was kicked out for an aggressive charge against a Spartan.

"Yes, I guess you would have to say it was a defensive battle," admitted a somber Mat coach Bill Coupe after the contest. "Our offense didn't play at all well, but our defense came through with an excellent effort."

Perhaps what made Coupe's mood somber was the fact that Amador Valley had beaten De La Salle 5-1 earlier in the season.

"Oh, yeah, you'd have to say Amador should be the league favorite," Coupe said.

"We just played better overall in the second period," he went on. "De La Salle is a good team. They're aggressive and a better team than Berkeley." (Granada beat Berkeley 4-1 in the first game of the season).

Matador goalie Gary Lamb had a busy day in the nets, garnering 12 saves. The Spartans had five corner kicks to two for Granada.

The match also featured numerous fouls. Granada had 16 penalties and De La Salle 13 in the first half alone.

The Matadors' junior varsity fell to the Spartans 2-0. Granada plays Memorial of the Mission Valley Athletic League at 3 p.m. tomorrow in its last non - conference encounter. The Matadors start East Bay Athletic League play Tuesday against Livermore.

Cowboys race past Canyon

Livermore High School rebounded from a poor outing against Mt. Eden earlier in the week by running and gunning their way to a 79-69 win over Canyon last night in pre - season basketball action in the Cowboy gym.

The Pokes evened their pre - season mark at 1-1 while the Cougars dropped their first match of the year.

Livermore had a lead as big as 19 points in the third quarter while coasting to the rugged win.

The trio of Tim Jenkins, Mark McCreary and Terry Covington combined for 58 of Livermore's 79 points.

The Cougars, behind the hot shooting of Tim Palmer, rallied late in the fourth quarter, running off a string of 10 straight points to pull within eight at 75-67 with 1:28 to play. That was the closest the Castro Valley school could get in the second half, as the Pokes matched Canyon's speed with flashy fast breaks of their own.

Livermore applied an intensive defense in the first half to carry a 34-26 lead into the lockerroom.

Both teams emerged with full - court presses, forcing one turnover after another and a like number of fouls. The Pokes, however, were more successful on capitalizing on their breaks.

The two squads, short in size, but aggressive on both offense and defense, played school - yard basketball for all four quarters as the striped men whistled 44 violations, leading to 66 charity tosses.

Covington sank three first - quarter baskets to spur the Cowboys to a 16-10 lead. After Canyon's Jeff Schmidt opened the game with a layin, the Pokes ran off a string of 10 unanswered points, taking a 10-2 lead that held up for the rest of the half.

Canyon's inability to jump on Livermore's mistakes was illustrated in the fourth quarter when, on a five - on - two fast break against the Pokes, the best the Cougars could get was a 15 - foot jumper by Schmidt that missed.

Bob Bolen scored 17 points to lead the Livermore junior varsity to a 50-35 win over the Cougars.

Navy routs Army as Gattuso stars

PHILADELPHIA — Joe Gattuso Jr., a chip off the old block, rushed 29 times for 128 yards and scored three touchdowns Saturday as Navy beat Army 38-10 for its fourth consecutive football victory in the traditional rivalry of service academies.

The 181 - pound Gattuso, of Mickelton, N.J., whose father led Navy rushers in 1953 and 1954, slashed two yards for a first - period touchdown that gave the Middies a 7-0 lead. Then he ran 20 and two yards for third - quarter scores.

The Navy victory reduced Army's lead in the 77 - year - old series to 36-35-6 and erased the stigma of a 4-7 losing season for the Middies.

Army, which lost a chance for its first winning season since 1972, was competitive only through the first half. Greg King romped 11 yards to tie the score 7-7 in the first period. After Navy quarterback Bob Leszczynski passed 11 yards to Phil McConkey for a touchdown, Mike Castelli, with two seconds remaining, booted a 37 - yard field goal that left the Cadets trailing 10-7 at intermission.

But Navy, which had outscored the Cadets 100-6 in winning the last three years, turned the game into a rout in the third quarter with two touchdowns by Gattuso and Bob Tata's 31 - yard field goal.

NCS 4-A title

Wind aids Spartan victory

PLEASANT HILL — Diablo Valley College lived up to its devilish label Friday night in the North Coast Section 4 - A football championship game between Pinole Valley and Washington.

The Spartans, scoring 13 points in the first quarter, played clutch defense in the final three periods to salvage a 13-6 win over the Huskies on the Astroturf at DVC.

Pinole Valley turned football's worst enemy, the wind, into a decisive ally in the initial period by losing the coin toss. The Spartans chose to defend the goal with the wind at their backs. Pinole Coach Jerry Deuker never made a smarter move.

The Huskies were stopped on their first drive and were forced to punt. Under conditions that would belittle Ray Guy, unsuspecting punter Kevin Meaney got off a solid boot high in the air.

Caught in the 50 m.p.h. wind, the ball landed out of bounds at the Washington 46, just six yards from the last line of scrimmage.

"I've played in fog, rain, and snow, but I've never played in wind like this before," marveled Deuker after the game.

Spartans quarterback Mark Dent found the wind hard to throw with, as he overthrew two receivers on the Pinole possession. But ended up using him a lot." Smith carried the ball 14 times for 67 yards to lead all Spartan rushers. "He finally came over to me and said, 'Coach, I can't run any more'," Deuker revealed.

Washington, who out-gained PV 266-231 and had 11 first downs to PV's 10, were hurt by interceptions and bad punts. Two fourth quarter drives, however, almost pulled the game out for the Fremont school.

Driving 74 yards in 14 plays, quarterback Mike Ricupito hit Mike Kane with a two - yard scoring pass with 5:08 to go to cut the lead down to 13-6. The drive kept going when after PV's Troy Evans intercepted Ricupito at the Husky 28, Evans unintelligibly let the ball slip out of his hands,

USC tops Irish

LOS ANGELES — Trojans quarterback Vince Evans and his understudy, Rob Hertel, each threw touchdown passes and Glen Walker tacked on a 46 - yard field goal Saturday as third - ranked Southern California downed error - prone Notre Dame 17-13.

Notre Dame, down 14-0, scored twice in the final quarter, but their final touchdown came with just four seconds remaining and an onside kick failed.

Hertel, coming off the bench late in the first half, staked the Trojans to a 7-0 lead when he marched them 68 yards, capping the drive with a six-yard scoring toss to Shelton Diggs.

Evans came back on to stun Notre Dame with a quick touchdown in the opening moments of the second half as he connected with Randy Simmrin for a 63-yard scoring pass on the fourth play of the third quarter.

After the Irish, ranked 13th, had closed the gap to seven on a 17-yard touchdown pass from Rusty Lisch to Vegas Ferguson early in the final quarter, Walker booted his field goal to give the Trojans a 10-point pad.

Lisch brought the Irish to within four points when, following a pass interference call against USC that moved the ball to the Trojan one, he broke over for a touchdown. But the two-point conversion attempt failed, and USC got the ensuing onside kick to nail down the triumph.

A victory in the regular season finale for the Trojans gave them a 10-1 record, and their next date is with second-ranked Michigan in the Rose Bowl. Notre Dame, which squandered numerous scoring opportunities against USC, finishes regular season play with an 8-3 mark and will meet Penn State in the 'Gator Bowl Dec. 27th.

Notre Dame held Trojan tailback Ricky Bell to 75 yards on 21 carries while Irish halfback Al Hunter became the first Notre Dame back to go over 1,000 yards in a season as he gained 115 yards on 21 carries.

Simmrin, playing one of the finest games of his Trojan career, caught six passes for 121 yards, including the scoring bomb from Evans.

Evans, a senior who has blossomed into one of the top quarterbacks on the West Coast, completed six of his 14 throws for 106 yards, while his junior backup, Hertel, hit six of nine for 61 yards in the two series he played.

right into Kane's awaiting arms.

With the wind now playing to their advantage, Washington gathered for a final drive with 4:05 to play from the PV 45. The Huskies drove to the Spartan 19 - yard line where the drive finally stalled when Ricupito overthrew John Born, the game's leading rusher with 114 yards, on a fourth down play.

NY signs Jackson

NEW YORK — Free agent slugger Reggie Jackson has agreed to sign with the New York Yankees, it was reported Saturday night.

Sports Editor Dick Young of the New York Daily News, writing in today's edition, said Jackson had turned down better offers from at least two other franchises and agreed to a five-year deal with the Yankees for a sum slightly over $2 million.

"New York did it," Young quotes one Yankee official as saying in explaining why Jackson turned down higher offers from other clubs, including a reported $4 million, five-year contract with Montreal. "He always did want to play in New York."

The signing was to be announced at a Monday news conference, according to Young.

Asked whether an agreement had been reached with Jackson, the flamboyant slugger who led the Oakland A's to three consecutive world championships before being traded to Baltimore last season, President Gabe Paul of the Yankees said, "I can't comment on that."

Jackson's contract reportedly would pay a salary of $200,000 a year for five years; a $100,000 signing bonus, and deferred payments of $50,000 a year for 20 years, upon completion of his five-year contract. That comes to a total of $2.1 million for the outfielder who will be 31 in May.

Ygnacio Valley tops SR cagers

CONCORD — Ygnacio Valley poured in 31 points in the first half to top San Ramon, 58-50 in the losers' pre-season opener Friday night at the victors' court.

A balanced attack gave Ygnacio Valley the victory. Layne Olson scored 16 points, Joe DeBane 11 and Hugh Hearn had 15.

Fritz Venker tanked 11 points and P. Wiltz 12 for the losers. The Wolves dropped 16 points behind in the third quarter and could never catch up.

San Ramon was also plagued by poor foul shooting as the Wolves could can but 18 of 31 charity shots. The Warriors made 24 of their 29 free throw attempts.

The Wolves canned 21 points in the final period to just 13 markers for the winners but the rally was too late. Venker fouled out in the second half and the Wolves' hopes went with him.

Woman of the Year

Motivation from within results in positive action

By JEAN McKENNA

She is a woman to be envied.

Not because she carried home an ornate silver cup engraved with her name and filled with luxuriant red roses. But because her love of life and of people finds expression in meaningful activities which call forth the best of her talents ... because her energy is directed toward answering the needs of others in ways which also bring her great satisfaction ...

Because amid her manifold responsibilities as mother, wife and community servant she maintains a calm center, with time to savor philosophical self-reflection and life's little pleasures.

That praise might be lavished on many women, but it is particularly true of Charlotte Severin of Pleasanton, recently honored as 1976 Woman of the Year. In an informal, and animated interview Charlotte touched upon the principles that motivate her, the role of the volunteer, women's liberation, community leadership — and the joy of involvement.

Charlotte positively glows with eagerness to share herself and her abilities with the people around her — a desire deeply rooted in the Christian principle that much is expected of those to whom much is given. There were many project, which gained recognition in the national AAUW journal, Charlotte accepted the presidency of the AAUW and continues to inspire that group to tackle new challenges.

Working together with others toward a common goal welds the bond of friendship, Charlotte discovered. She claims many of the people she has worked with closely, such as Betty Norstrand who co-chaired the media project, as life-long friends.

"The Festival Committee for the Bicentennial Celebration was a fantastic group of people, men and women," she declares. "I believe in accentuating the positive, so we simply acted on all of the positive ideas everyone suggested, and accomplished so much." As leader of that committee, she believes that the enjoyment shared by all its members arose from mutual trust.

"We were never disappointed; not one person failed to follow through on any project. It was one of those things that repaid all our work with joy."

To attempt to do all the work oneself, to get involved merely to chalk up points, or to compete, only reaps bitterness and an empty feeling, Charlotte believes. For that reason, she feels that women should not compare themselves to anyone else, but should get involved in those tasks they enjoy. She strongly disagrees things she always felt she OUGHT to do, but then came a period of soul-searching when, as a young mother she asked herself, What do I WANT to do?

Fresh flowers fill the silver cup presented to Charlotte Severin as 1976 Woman of the Year.

"At the time my husband was away from home long hours during his residency. I was caring for two young children, which was a delight to me, but I had no one to talk to about good books or art. I felt I was drowning intellectually, that an important part of me was not being stimulated," Charlotte recalls. "It was at that time I decided to join AAUW. I met once a month with a group that was studying creativity.

"There is a time in your life when there's a readiness, and I was ready. We read Carl Rogers' book, 'On Becoming a Person.' His message was that we should believe in ourselves and trust our own feelings." Charlotte reflected on the direction in which she would channel her energies and discovered that many of the things she felt she ought to do were things she also truly wanted to do.

"That's what makes it beautiful, that feeling of wholeness and fulfillment. Doing things for others or for the community because you feel that's the best way you can use your talents. I can only describe it as the joy of involvement. If you work because you want to, then the reward comes in the doing."

Charlotte's philosophical bent keeps her constantly on the threshold of new directions, alive to the demands and opportunities of the moment. Being married to a physician, she feels, has taught her to be flexible. To take the time NOW to do what needs doing for herself and for others.

"I don't plan my involvement so much as find that things present themselves to me. For example, the media project I worked on with the AAUW was born of an interest I had for a long time that finally blossomed." Charlotte heard a lecture by Edward Teller about the influence of the media on student unrest in the Sixties and was moved to bring a resolution to the AAUW executive board setting up a comprehensive study of the role of the media. As a result of that with the attitude that doing something as an unpaid volunteer belittles the job.

"What is so great is that today's women are really dedicated to the concerns in which they involved themselves — community sports, the cultural arts, care for the aged or children. It starts with a woman's self-image and communication with other women. Then a woman who believes in herself can use her talents to the fullest, even in volunteer jobs. And there is reward."

A woman can, as Charlotte has, make her family her first priority and still find time and energy for so much more. Charlotte enjoys exercising her creativity in cooking and home decorating, performs the less creative tasks as quickly and efficiently as possible (she does her ironing while talking on the telephone), and reserves time for her outdoor landscape painting so that she can slow down and renew her energy. Three-year-old Julie, youngest of the three Severin children, often accompanies her mother to a presentation or meeting.

As a woman who is motivated from the inside, not by competition from the outside, Charlotte prefers to describe the value of the award for Woman of the Year as "an opportunity to show the community that there are women out there doing so many important things, even while raising families.

"Their talent spills over into the community."

Kinder-Gym classes set

The Twin Valley YMCA will begin Kinder-Gym classes for youngsters 18 months to four years Nov. 30 at Pleasanton Greens on Vineyard Ave. The fee is $8 per month for eight half-hour classes for both mother and child twice a week.

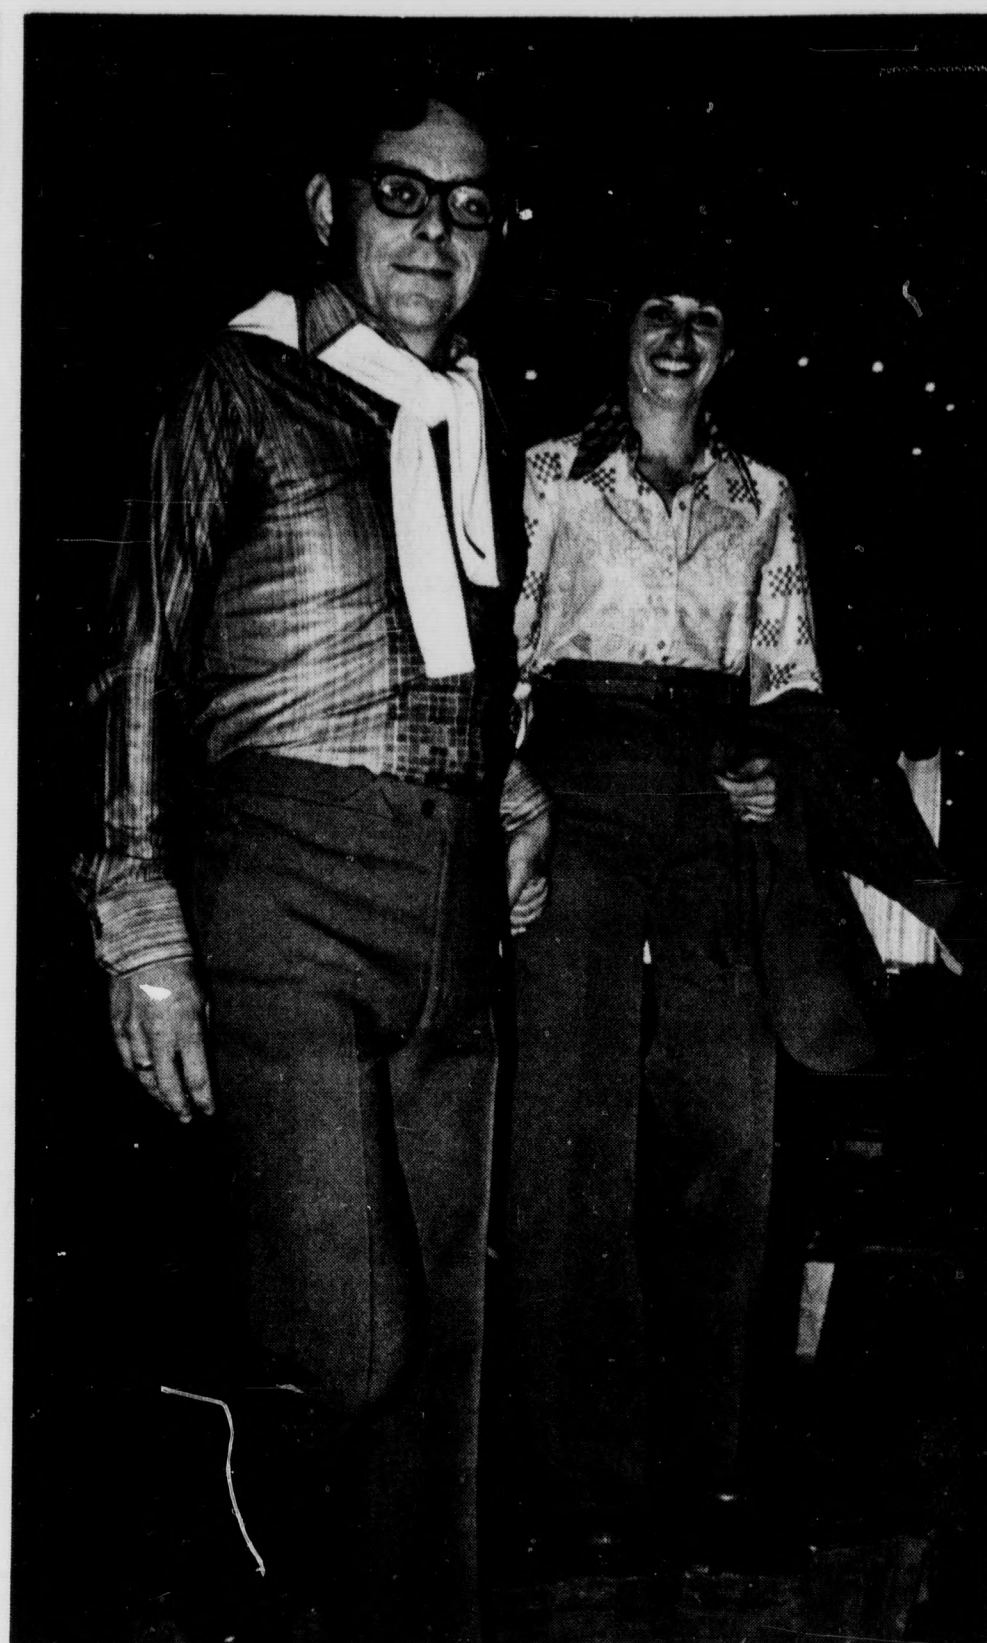

The class will be taught by Karen Inglesby, an experienced teacher who has worked with the Red Cross.

The program concept is Basic Movement Education. While it looks like play gymnastics, it is essentially a challenge to the child's creative capacity.

Class hours are 9:30 to 10 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday (18 to 24 months); 10:15 to 10:45 a.m. (24 to 36 months); 11 to 11:30 a.m. (three to four years). For reservations call 462-2211.

Accent on Autumn

A fashion show with an accent on autumn was hosted by the Livermore Newcomers Club Nov. 17 at Castlewood Country Club. Club members paraded the snappy collection, by Walter Roberts of Fremont, and door prizes highlighted the luncheon.

Karen and Paul Bauman wear coordinated ensembles, both in shades of rust. Karen's suit by Bobby Brooks ($64) incorporates classic good looks, while Paul's European-styled slacks by Glenn Oaks ($20) are nicely set off by a Spire off-white slipover ($18).

Rotarians honor boys

The Pleasanton High Schools produced two outstanding students of the month, named recently by the Pleasanton Rotary Club. They are Craig Johnson from Foothill High School and Mark Kendall, an Amador High School student.

Mark is a senior with a high scholastic achievement record. A Block A member for two years, Mark is on the track team and is involved with Cross Country wrestling. He has received his shadow block, the highest award given, and was team captain of the EBAL Cross Country. As a junior, Mark was California Scholarship Federation historian and class president.

Craig is a top member of Foothill's track team, along with many other school sports. He maintains a 3.4 grade average but manages the enormous task of student body accounts. Craig plans to attend San Jose University and major in accounting.

Both Craig and Mark were honored at the Rotary Club's Nov. 19 luncheon and were presented with a special Rotary medallion.

Morgan Territory is scenic setting

Livermore Valley residents have always known Morgan Territory Road — which begins at the end of North Livermore Avenue — to be a spectacular drive between the Valley and Concord. A good chunk of that scenery is in the public domain now that the East Bay Regional Park District has plans to add 555 acres to the 960 already in Morgan Territory Regional Preserve. The new acreage is being purchased for $225,000 from Mrs. Beatrice Cardoza and is 9.4 miles north of the city of Livermore. The park will probably remain undeveloped for many years, but hikers are welcome; call EBRPD at 531-9300 for information on possibly dangerous cliff areas. This view is taken from the ridge that runs through the park, looking toward the eastern slopes of Mt. Diablo.

Murray School Dist.

Key job to be filled

The Murray School District could be without a full time business manager for a month or more after the present incumbent in the job, Phillip Chubb, leaves December 1.

In discussing various district affairs earlier this week, Chubb explained his reasoning for taking early retirement and leaving the district at what might be considered a crucial time of the school year.

Chubb, who has been in school district employment 10½ years after retiring as a supply officer with the U.S. Navy, said he mentioned his hope to retire on or about Dec. 1 to Superintendent Donald Williams 4½ months ago. He said Williams subsequently talked to him "generally along the lines of changing my mind."

Chubb denied there has ever been any friction between him and Williams, saying he has always had a good working relationship with him and school board members.

Some residents of the Murray district have also wondered why Chubb took three weeks vacation in October after having the Dec. 1 date approved.

Chubb defended his vacation request by commenting that he had the time coming and it would have been less advantageous, financially, for him to have taken the vacation time in pay. Chubb and his wife are inveterate overseas travelers and spent part of their vacation in Finland and the Soviet Union.

Prior to coming to Murray 3½ years ago, Chubb was with the Orinda School District for seven years.

Chubb believes the new person hired to succeed him "could come right in and become familiar with the process without any loss in efficiency providing the person has school business manager experience."

In the interim period, and during Chubb's absences, Anna Stutler has been authorized by the board to expedite business matters.

The district recently received the audit from 1975-76, prepared by the Alameda firm of Kimbell, Faris, McKenna and von Kaschnitz.

Under the section headed "Comments on the general fund," the total current expense of education ($6,832,926) and prior year ($5,946,004) are listed as well as average daily attendance (reflecting a drop from 5,808 the previous year to 5,573 in 75-76) and expense per average daily attendance of $1,226 (previously $1,023).

The district's ratio of teachers' and teachers' aides' salaries and payroll benefits to total current expense of education, less pupil transportation, was 63 per cent, which complies with the Education Code section that specifies an elementary district ratio of at least 60 per cent.

Capital outlay from the general fund totaled $97,046. Major expenditures were for lease payments for portable buildings and purchases of audio-visual and pupil transportation equipment.

On the state school building fund, the audit states the district received loans from the state school building fund to finance new buildings. Loan balances, which include interest, totaled $10,581,144 as of June 30, 1976.

Under the bonded debt section of the report, the audit reveals that the district has incurred a total obligation of $4,331,000 on bonds authorized and issued from 1951 through 1974. Outstanding obligations as of June 30, 1976, total $3,323,000.

The audit is accompanied by a cover letter from the firm stating, "Because of the omission of fixed assets, we cannot express an opinion that the statements (incorporated in the report) present the complete financial position of the district."

Road builders worry on grim state scene

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's construction industry is alarmed by the proposed State Transportation Plan that calls for better traffic management on existing highways instead of building new ones.

Implementation of the policies outlined in the plan would mean the loss of some 10,000 construction jobs, according to Ben Bartolotto, director of the Construction Industry Research Board, the state's trade association.

Bartolotto also claims that "user charges" such as toll roads, smog charges and congestion pricing advocated in the plan would endanger federal funding for California highways and force less affluent motorists to find other means of transportation.

His contentions are denied by members of the California Transportation Plan Task Force who drew up the proposals but the planners none the less concede that their ideas, which must be approved by the legislature before implementation, are controversial.

"There is a new direction being considered for the state's transportation system and part of it says, 'Let's make the best use of what we've got,'" explains task force member Wayne Hoffman. "People who have a vested interest in the status quo — in the extensive financing of the past — are certainly going to feel some concern about this plan."

Highway construction traditionally has been paid for through state and federal gasoline taxes — the method favored by the construction industry. However, Hoffman and other planners object to this system because they feel it does not reflect differing amounts of use placed upon highways by motorists.

"Take the little old lady who drives to the store once a week," says another task force member, Peter Hathaway. "Why should she pay at the same rate as someone who clogs the free-ways by using them at rush hour every day?"

Under the system of "user charges" advocated in the plan, Hoffman and Hathaway say, motorists would pay their fair share of the cost of California's highways. Smog charges would mean that those driving automobiles without adequate emission controls would be subject to higher registration fees, while "congestion pricing" would impose extra charges on motorists who use the highways at peak traffic hours.

Bartolotto claims the concept of user charges is being utilized by the planners "to force people out of their cars and into some form of mass transit" — a charge both Hoffman and Hathaway deny.
